In the News

Welcome to our second Newsletters from QMI, with more information about what we do; what our Global Sales Partners are up to, or indeed anything relevant to do with 'Oil Mist' (our principal business) or KARI, our Finnish manufacturer of KARI Float Switches here in the UK.

We've yet to find out...

Naturally we always take an interest in any fire on board a marine vessel – particularly if it was one we had intended to be on!

We were due to go to Ireland in February on board the Stena Europe when fire broke on the ferry on the journey from the Republic of Ireland to Pembrokeshire. The emergency services were initially alerted just before 21:25 GMT when the ferry was approximately two nautical miles from Fishguard, as a result of which the Coastguard teams and Mid and West Wales Fire and Rescue teams were called out, however the ferry crew were able to extinguish the engine room blaze.

Stena Line said all 88 passengers and 59 crew were unharmed and got off safely, and Stena have said the ferry has been “removed from service while we undertake a thorough investigation as to the cause of the incident.”

Thankfully on this occasion there were no reports of injuries, however, as...
